ABSTRACT

The Covid-19 pandemic not only has a negative impact on public health, but also has a negative impact on economic growth in Indonesia. Companies in the infrastructure sector are one of the business sectors that have been negatively affected by the Covid-19 pandemic, because the implementation of lockdown policies such as the PSBB (Large-Scale Social Restrictions) has caused a decline in the performance of companies in several sub-sectors of infrastructure companies affected by the COVID-19 pandemic, for example, the transportation sub-sector and the sub-sector. toll roads, airports, ports. The purpose of this study is to empirically prove financial performance, among others; profitability (ROE), capital structure (DER), firm value (PER) between before the Covid-19 pandemic and during the Covid-19 pandemic, the type of research used is quantitative. The population in this study are infrastructure companies listed on the Indonesia Stock Exchange (IDX) during the 2019-2020 period. The number of samples is 72 infrastructure companies with purposive sampling technique (sampling based on criteria). The test was carried out using the Wilcoxon Signed Rank Test, with the results, Based on the ROE ratio there were significant differences in profitability in infrastructure companies before and during Covid-19, Based on the DER and PER ratios, there were no differences in capital structure and company value in infrastructure companies before and during Covid 19.
